DETAILED ACTION

General Status

1. This is a First Action on the Merits on RCE. Claims 1-17 and 19-21 are pending in the case.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 3, 5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b) as being anticipated by Hagan (US 3,938,068).

Hagan in figures 1-4, discloses an electrical adapter 20, comprising inside AC connector including first, second and ground pins 36, 36, 38, and outside AC connector with first slot 44 connected to the first pin, second slot 44 connected to the second pin, and a ground slot 48 connected to the ground pin; and a ground wire 72 electrically connected to the ground pin and ground slot, wherein the ground wire is configured to be connected to a chassis 80 (column 5, lines 5-10). The adapter disclosed by Hagan can be moved (by hand) in a plane parallel to the plane of the chassis 80 (there is no limitation in the claim that require the adapter to be attached to any component in the chassis except for the ground wire.)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2, 4, 6 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hagan (US 3,938,068) in view of Haas et al. (US 5,735,712).

As discussed above, Hagan et al. satisfies the limitation of claims 1, 3, 5 and 7.

However, Hagan et al. does not disclose EMI gasket between the chassis and the connector.

Haas et al. in figures 3-8, discloses a conductive gasket 74 surrounding a connector and in contact with a chassis 202.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the connector of Hagan et al. and provide a conductive gasket as taught by Haas et al. so that a continuous electric path is provided between the connector and the chassis (column 5, lines 1-6). In so far as recitation of specific industry standards recited in claims 4 and 8 are concerned, it is considered within the skill of ordinary person in the art, to design the adapter to meet the applicable industry standard.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 12/11/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Art Unit: 2839

The Applicant has argued that the device of Hagan does not allow movement of the device in the plane of the chassis. The examiner wishes to point out that the claims 1 and 5, do not recite the chassis positively, the claims recite "adapter is configured to connect to said chassis allowing movement within a plane of said chassis." Since the disclosed adapter of Hagan, when turned over and side 28 is placed on the surface of the chassis and terminal 76 is connected to the chassis, the adapter can be moved in the plane of the chassis, thereby satisfying the claim limitations. As pointed out before, there is no limitation in the claim that requires the adapter to be attached to any component in the chassis except for the ground wire.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 9-17 and 19-21 are allowed.

Claims 9, 12, 15 and 19, each of the independent claims recite an adapter with an inside AC connector, a chassis configured to hold one power supply and the inside AC connector is connected to the power supply. These limitations along with the limitation "electrical connector attached to chassis allowing movement in a plane parallel to a plane of said chassis," defines the claims over the art of record.

7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to T. C. Patel whose telephone number is (571) 272-2098. The examiner can normally be reached on 6:30-4:00.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Lynn Feild can be reached on (571) 271-2092. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 703-872-9306.
